

California Pre/Post Marital Agreements

June 2018

(v.18.01)

Updated Product Features

Reimbursement for Educational Expenses

You can now choose between reimbursement as provided by Family Code §2641 or use a broad right of reimbursement. If a broad right is chosen, you can select which specific expenses should be reimbursed. Also, you can provide a period of time after which the right to reimbursement for these expenses lapses. Questions 197-201

Right of Reimbursement for Community Property Created

A new option has been added to retain or waive right of reimbursement pursuant to Family Code §2640 (b). Question 227

New Options in Reimbursement for Single Property Used to Acquire Community Property

You can now select "Separate Property Used to Acquire or Improve Community Property [not Fam. Code §2640 (b)]" or "Separate Property acquires a pro rata ownership interest in Community Property." Question 228

Management of Community Property and the Family Code

A new question asks if the managing spouses will be subject to limitations imposed by the Family Code. You can choose to state whether managing spouses will be bound by these limitations or choose to make no mention of the Family Code at all. Question 237

Addition to Reimbursement for Separate Property

Software Upgrades

New Formatting Feature

For Microsoft Word users, we have enhanced our formatting to automatically insert style separators in place of hidden paragraphs. The latter were necessary for earlier versions of Word to allow the use of two different styles on the same line; this made cross referencing possible, but sometimes created the potential for confusion when editing with Show/Hide active. Style separators do not cause such line breaks and, more importantly allow the Word Navigator to display the various headings in the document, which makes movement within the document and editing much simpler. For more about how to use the Word Navigator, check the Help section in Word.

New Functionality for 4K monitors

The Lawgic software can now save a font size up to 50 points (the maximum before was 24). You can now change the font size not only from the font size dialog, but also by selecting 'alt - up arrow' key to raise the font size and 'alt -down arrow' key to decrease the font size.

Revised User Interface

The user interface has been revised to include new sizing and coloring for buttons and icons in the question pane.
